Hiddleston with Morrone and Calva

Call-to-arms

Tom Hiddleston is on the trail of a South American weapons dealer in a much-anticipated sequel series

PREVIEW THRILLER

The Night Manager

Coming soon, BBC1

It's been nearly a decade since Tom Hiddleston swept on to our screens as undercover spy Jonathan Pine in The Night Manager, giving a performance that earned him a Golden Globe and launched his career as a leading man.

So, we can barely contain our excitement at the prospect of heading back into the murky world of international espionage in a six-part sequel – inspired by John le Carré's 1993 novel – beginning on BBC1 on New Year's Day

The first season followed Jonathan as he was recruited by MI6 intelligence officer Angela Burr (Olivia Colman) to investigate the inner workings of a powerful arms operation run by Richard Roper (Hugh Laurie).

When we rejoin the story, evil Roper has been consigned to history, Angela has retired, and Jonathan is living under a new identity, Alex Goodwin, and working as a low-level MI6 officer running a low-key surveillance unit in London.

However, it's clear that he's still haunted by the memory of what happened all those years before, and a chance sighting of one of Roper's mercenary contacts brings his past rushing back.

The encounter leads Jonathan to South America, where he goes undercover on a perilous mission to bring down the arms operation of Colombian businessman Teddy Dos Santos (Diego Calva), seen by many as Roper's true disciple.

As Jonathan arrives in Colombia, he's plunged deep into a plot involving the training of a guerilla army, and he quickly uncovers a conspiracy to destabilise a nation…

'I'm honestly excited,' says Hiddleston about the show's return. 'Pine is unlike any character I've ever played. If somebody stops me in the street, or I find myself at a social gathering, people will bring up The Night Manager.'

A host of stars from the first season are due to return alongside Hiddleston and Colman, while there are plenty of new heroes and villains in the follow-up.

CRIMINAL CONNECTIONS

One of them is shipping broker Roxana Bolaños (Camila Morrone), who makes an instant connection with Jonathan and reluctantly helps him to infiltrate Teddy's arms dealings.

'Ultimately, Roxana is a survivor,' says Morrone. 'There is no part of Roxana that is a hopeless romantic. She's a real player, and an equal to these very powerful men. It's rare that you see a woman driving the story like that.'

Meanwhile, the sinister Teddy also has a complex personality.

'Teddy is more than a nasty villain,' explains Calva. 'I'm from Mexico, and I have played several bad guys in my career. There's something really cool about playing the bad guy, but there's also something that can get really close to being offensive. I want to try to put humanity and vulnerability into Teddy.'

With a third season of the thriller already commissioned, the show's legacy also provides a fitting tribute to author John le Carré, who gave his blessing to the TV sequels before he sadly died in 2020.

'We were talking and working very closely with John before he passed away. He's had a huge input in this new story,' says Hiddleston. 'John was an extraordinary analyst of the British psyche.'

THE STORY SO FAR...

Set against the backdrop of 2011's Arab Spring, the first season of The Night Manager – available on BBC iPlayer – began in Cairo, where former soldier Jonathan Pine, night manager at a luxurious hotel, is recruited by MI6 to infiltrate the operation of notorious arms dealer Richard Roper (Hugh Laurie, right).

Despite the suspicions of Roper's right-hand man Corky (Tom Hollander), Jonathan charmed his way into the villain's inner circle and formed a relationship with his girlfriend Jed Marshall (Elizabeth Debicki).

After gathering evidence on Roper for MI6 task-force leader Angela Burr (Olivia Colman), Jonathan hatched a plan to blow up the arms dealer's weapons shipment. Meanwhile, Angela worked to cut off Roper's high-level connections within the intelligence community...

Helen with 'Amanda'

Kym Marsh plays a scheming con woman in a tense Australia-set thriller

Imitation GAME

NEW THRILLER

The Imposter

Monday-Thursday, 9pm, 5

There is greed, intrigue and betrayal worthy of Succession in 5's Australia-set four-part thriller The Imposter.

Neighbours star Jackie Woodburne plays Helen, the steely Northern Ireland-born owner of a luxury Melbourne hotel who has health issues and is under increasing pressure from her three grown-up children to sell the seaside resort.

However, Helen's world is turned upside down when a British con woman (Kym Marsh) turns up unannounced and claims to be her long-lost daughter Amanda.

'Helen's children are all part of the family business, but she is hiding a huge secret from them,' says Marsh, 49. 'She had an older daughter called Amanda who was adopted as a young baby in the UK.

PAST REGRETS

'Helen has been having lots of dreams about Amanda and has always felt a huge guilt that she had her adopted, so she is completely thrown to come face to face with her. It's totally out of the blue, so there is a lot of getting to know each other.'

Before long, though, 'Amanda' has charmed her way into Helen's heart and made herself indispensable – but viewers quickly realise that she is an imposter.

'"Amanda" works out how she can fit in and make Helen feel good – however, all the time she is plotting,' says Marsh. 'It was great to play such a villainous character. She is multilayered and a very damaged individual.’

Meanwhile, Helen’s other children – Simon (Don Hany), Kate (Jane Harber) and Ian (Jackson Gallagher) – are thrown into a spin when the real Amanda (played by Dannii Minogue) arrives in Melbourne wanting to make contact with her birth mother

TWISTED TALE

‘The story gets increasingly dark and there is a very dramatic finale that we filmed in woodland on the edge of a ravine,’ teases Marsh. ‘Luckily, I’m good with heights and we had a great stunt team because my toes were hanging over the edge at times. It was a thrilling role to play.’

Filming the series was Marsh’s first time in Australia and she made sure she spent time visiting the local attractions.

‘My family is my anchor, so to leave them for six weeks was scary, and I also hate flying,’ she smiles. ‘But the whole experience was liberating. I had a wine-tasting tour and got to see koalas and kangaroos – but thankfully, I didn’t come across a single spider or snake, which is what I had been worried about. I had a lovely time.’

Ambassador Salt has an underwater summit with the humans...

The War Between the Land and the Sea

Sunday, 8.30pm & 9.20pm, BBC1

The summit between humanity and homo aqua got off to an inauspicious start in BBC1’s The War Between the Land and the Sea when the aquatic species delivered a dramatic demonstration of how human pollution has ruined their habitat.

Human ambassador Barclay Pierre-Dupont (Being Human’s Russell Tovey) is pushed even further out of his comfort zone this week as he prepares to meet homo-aqua representative Salt (Gugu Mbatha-Raw) on her own territory. But what awaits him beneath the waves?

Here, Surface star Mbatha-Raw, 42, reveals why her character is turning the tables...

How would you describe Salt? She has come to represent her species, to defend their rights and expose the human race for what they have done to the oceans. Throughout the series, you get to see so many different sides of her. She initially has this formal, regal quality to her, and as the series goes on she becomes more human.

What was it like transforming into this character? I must give full credit to our prosthetic designer Neill Gorton and the incredible team who designed this beautiful look for Salt. It took nearly three hours to get into make-up and costume – and that was just for my face! It’s not every day you get a character so liberated from your usual look. You have to discover a different way to move and speak; it was a really fun challenge.

The production design on the series is incredible. Did you have any favourite sets? One of my favourites was under the ocean, in Salt’s domain. Up until that point, Salt is out of her comfort zone in the human world and breathing air. Stepping on to that set really transported you to another world.

What do you hope viewers will take from watching the show? It’s a bold, epic and ambitious story, but it’s also got an emotional heart to it. There’s so much going on in the world that is difficult, and this show really has an escapist element to it. It’s grounded in our real world, but takes it to another level...

Russell Tovey as Barclay

With Europe's golfers retaining the Ryder Cup, England's Lionesses claiming victory at the Euros and the Red Roses winning the Rugby World Cup, it's been another memorable year for UK sport.

This week, the BBC pays tribute to the stars who brought us those memorable moments in the 2025 Sports Personality of the Year awards. Gabby Logan, Alex Scott and Clare Balding present the star-studded ceremony live from Salford on Thursday. But who will follow in the footsteps of last year's winner Keely Hodgkinson?

Here, Balding, 54, tells us more...

LIVE AWARDS

BBC Sports Personality of the Year

Thursday, 7pm, BBC1

How would you describe the past 12 months in sport? It's been a great year for sporting stories, both for personal success and team triumphs – from Rory McIlroy completing a career Grand Slam to the Lionesses and Red Roses' victories. And we've seen record-breaking TV viewing figures along the way.

Is there a particular SPOTY highlight that you look forward to most? I think the team result will be a big one this year as it's so competitive.

It's been a huge summer for women's sport, hasn't it? Women's sport has changed so much in the past 20 years and it's such an honour to be part of a programme that can chart that progress. The last four winners of SPOTY have all been women, which not only shows how much they are achieving across a range of sports but also how much women's sport is recognised and appreciated by the watching public.

Cor blimey! Hollywood great Dick Van Dyke celebrates an incredible milestone

DRAMA

Diagnosis Murder & Murder 101

Sat, from 7am, Great! Mystery

The term 'showbiz legend' can sometimes be bandied about too easily, but that's definitely not the case when it comes to Dick Van Dyke, who celebrates his 100th birthday on Saturday 13 December.

Here, we look at the highlights of his long and varied career...

SITCOM STAR

Van Dyke started off as a radio DJ but fame came with his role as comedy writer Rob Petrie, opposite Mary Tyler Moore as his wife Laura, in hit sitcom The Dick Van Dyke Show (1961-66), which earned him three Emmys. 'The five years we spent on the show was probably the most creative and the most fun I've ever had,' he says.

Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore

FILM FAVOURITE

He achieved iconic status in Disney's classic musical Mary Poppins (1964), playing cockney chimney sweep Bert (with famously dodgy accent) opposite Dame Julie Andrews' magical nanny. The movie's animated scenes saw Van Dyke memorably dance with animals, including penguins. He followed that with another much-loved musical fantasy, Chitty Chitty Bang Bang (1968), in which he played inventor Caractacus Potts, creator of the movie's flying car.

EVERGREEN PERFORMER

Although Van Dyke has slowed down in recent years, he hasn't stopped working entirely. In the last two years, he has appeared on the American version of The Masked Singer, guested on US daytime soap Days of Our Lives and danced in the music video for Coldplay's All My Love.

Starring in Diagnosis Murder

With son Barry Van Dyke

TV SLEUTH

Van Dyke turned to crime solving in TV series Diagnosis Murder (1993-2001), starring as hospital doctor Mark Sloan, who was also a consultant for the LAPD. The cases usually involved Mark's detective son, Steve, played by his real-life son Barry Van Dyke. 'It was wonderful working together,' says Van Dyke, who reunited with Barry for four made-for-TV mystery movies, Murder 101 (2006-2008), as criminology professor Dr Jonathan Maxwell and private detective Mike Bryant.

WHERE TO WATCH HIM

Great! Mystery channel will be marking Van Dyke's milestone birthday with a morning of Diagnosis Murder and Murder 101 episodes from 7am. The Dick Van Dyke Show is available on Prime Video, while Mary Poppins can be found on Disney+ and Chitty Chitty Bang Bang is on MGM+.

Joseph Gordon-Levitt plays the larger-than-life co-founder of Uber

itvX Super Pumped: The Battle for Uber

NEW Available: Sunday 14 December
Genre: Drama Season: 1
Episodes: 7

ITVX's new fact-based drama Super Pumped: The Battle for Uber charts the groundbreaking cab company's rocky road to global success under the control of bullish co-founder and former CEO Travis Kalanick.

As brought to life by Inception star Joseph Gordon-Levitt, the driven Kalanick is not always easy to like. But despite his overbearing, win-at-all-costs approach, he is also fascinating to watch and, apparently, could – on occasion – be a good boss.

'He made some questionable decisions and was guilty of some blameworthy behaviour,' reveals Gordon-Levitt of Kalanick, who would end up resigning from the board of his beloved company amid allegations about a toxic workplace culture. 'But I spoke to a bunch of people who worked with him at Uber, and heard how compelling, winning and caring he was with his team.'

REVOLUTIONARY IDEA

Co-starring Uma Thurman as Uber board member Arianna Huffington, Leaving Las Vegas star Elisabeth Shue as Kalanick's mother Bonnie and Bloodline's Kyle Chandler as venture capitalist Bill Gurley, the seven-parter starts with Kalanick securing financial backing for his start-up smartphone app UberCab – a groundbreaking idea for customers to hail and pay for taxis on their phones and for drivers to work when they wanted.

But Kalanick soon faces potential financial ruin thanks to the opposition of the San Francisco Mass Transit Authority, which starts imposing fines on his drivers for traffic violations. Meanwhile, as well as launching vicious verbal tirades against his employees, Kalanick has a toxic relationship with his firefighter brother Cory (Mishka Thébaud).

But for Gordon-Levitt, the things that made Kalanick a success and also, at times, a liability, are two sides of the same coin.

'There's something basic and primal in all of us that wants to win at all costs,' he says. 'Kalanick leant as hard as he could into that beast inside. But there is something quite likeable about him in a weird way.

'Complexity is often the most attractive thing – playing someone with great strengths as well as shortcomings.'

STRONG VOICE

Super Pumped also uses video game-style graphics, movie clips and Pearl Jam songs to tell the story, as well as a narration from Quentin Tarantino.

'It was an incredible long shot, of course, but I asked Quentin to do it and he said yes,' says co-showrunner Brian Koppelman. 'Somehow, in the same way that we knew we needed Pearl Jam [on the soundtrack] to help us tell the story, we knew we needed Quentin's voice to help us tell the story. Somehow, it just seemed like his was the only voice.'

Vegas or bust

The Ghoul and Lucy team up for a high-stakes road trip to the ruins of Las Vegas as the sci-fi saga returns

prime Fallout

NEW Available: Wed 17 Dec Genre: Sci-fi Season: 2 Eps: 8 (released weekly)

All bets are off as the ragtag survivors of the post-apocalyptic hellscape known as the Wasteland embark on a road trip to New Vegas in Season 2 of Fallout.

The popular video-game adaptation returns with eight new episodes following the unlikely duo of vault dweller Lucy MacLean (Ella Purnell) and decaying bounty hunter The Ghoul (Walton Goggins) as they venture across Nevada and the Mojave Desert to the post-war, newly named ruins of Las Vegas.

But while The Ghoul is searching for clues from his past life as movie star Cooper Howard, Lucy is on a mission to find her father, vault overseer Hank (Kyle MacLachlan), whose role in the destruction of her childhood home, Shady Sands, was revealed in the Season 1 finale.

'Lucy is grappling with her identity and her moral values,' says Purnell, 29. 'She's trying to reconcile the idea of the father she grew up with and finding out the truth about the horrible things he's done. She also has a not-entirely-pleasant road-trip buddy and they have very different ideas of what they'll do when they find her dad.

'Lucy believes in justice, taking accountability for one's actions and possible redemption, whereas The Ghoul is more like two bullets between the eyes and you're done. That's a fun dynamic to play with.'

Season 2 also brings back altruistic soldier Maximus (Aaron Moten), who's now a knight in the militaristic Brotherhood of Steel and grappling with his allegiance, while Lucy's brother, Norm (Moises Arias), is trapped in Vault 31.

Justin Theroux joins the cast as New Vegas' powerful technocrat, Robert House, while Macaulay Culkin guest-stars as a 'crazy genius'. A violent faction known as Caesar's Legion is also introduced, as well as menacing mutated creatures.

'There's a moment where this creature comes out of nowhere and it's a genuine surprise for me; it's my real reaction,' says Goggins, 54, of an encounter with a handmade 'radscorpion', a giant, ravenous scorpion.

'The puppeteers had it on a pulley and just yanked the thing out. It's good old-fashioned storytelling and nothing beats that. But I wasn't prepared for how the story was going to go this season. It's a whole 'nother level.'

Elisabeth Moss uncovers the ugly side of the beauty industry

Paramount+ Shell

NEW Available: Friday 19 December Genre: Horror

Ditching the modest red gown and white bonnet she once wore as June Osborne in The Handmaid's Tale, Elisabeth Moss' latest role sees her embrace the seemingly glamorous world of wellness – only to find that looks can be very deceptive – in darkly comic horror Shell.

When the roles dry up, once-beloved actor Samantha Lake (Moss) sees a way to reclaim her career when she crosses paths with the enigmatic and uber-stylish Zoe Shannon (Kate Hudson), the CEO of Shell, a health-and-wellness firm that specialises in using genetic technology.

Following a producer's advice, Samantha undergoes a rejuvenating procedure at Shell. But when she suffers disturbing side effects from the treatment, and fellow starlet Chloe Benson (Kaia Gerber) goes missing, Samantha suspects Zoe is hiding some monstrous truths beneath Shell's flawless facade…

'The film doesn't take itself too seriously,' says Moss, who reunites with her Handmaid's Tale co-star Max Minghella, this time with him directing. 'It starts out as something that you think is this journey about a woman who is struggling and needing a mentor. Then it becomes this wild, absurd, campy ride. It's really fun and unusual.'

Emily straddles Rome and Paris

Emily in... Rome!

Emily begins a glamorous new life in Italy

NETFLIX Emily in Paris

NEW Available: Thursday 18 December
Genre: Comedy drama
Season: 5 Episodes: 10

Marketing It girl Emily Cooper is trading croissants for cannoli as she relocates to Italy and dives head first into a Roman romance in Season 5 of Emily in Paris.

Now running Agence Grateau's office in Rome, Emily (Lily Collins) is enjoying la dolce vita, which includes being wined and dined by her handsome new boyfriend, Marcello (Eugenio Franceschini), heir to a cashmere company.

However, work problems soon emerge and a major secret is poised to destroy one of her most important relationships. To top it off, her Parisian ex-boyfriend, chef Gabriel (Lucas Bravo), has had a change of heart about their turbulent romance. Can Emily truly move on?

'Unfortunately, Gabriel has to deal with the repercussions of his choice,' says Collins, 36. 'Marcello is a whole other adventure that we want for Emily because we ultimately want her to be able to have a better work-life balance. We want her to be able to smile without condition, and he comes along at that perfect time.'

Season 5 sees the return of Emily's BFFs, including Mindy (Ashley Park), Julien (Samuel Arnold) and Luc (Bruno Gouery). However, Camille Razat, who played Gabriel's old flame, Camille, will not be returning.

Minnie Driver is joining the cast as Princess Jane, a royally connected friend of Emily's always-chic boss, Sylvie Grateau (Philippine Leroy-Beaulieu). Plus, The Mindy Project's Bryan Greenberg will star as an American expat in Paris.

This season's espresso-fuelled drama will also whisk Emily away to Venice, but fear not, the show will not be bidding au revoir to the city where her story began.

'Emily's going to have a presence in Rome, but it doesn't mean she's not going to be in Paris,' teases creator Darren Star. 'I feel like Emily and Marcello have a real spark and a real romantic connection, so a lot of that will continue to play out. But this season is a tale of two cities: Rome and Paris. Straddling both, Emily takes love and life to the next level.'

Steve Backshall's Royal Arctic Challenge

Thursday, 8.30pm, ITV1

In April 1975, a then 26-year-old Prince Charles toured the frozen Canadian Arctic on an historic 11-day royal adventure that saw him take part in some extreme activities and learn about the way of life of the local Inuit people.

The trip was so impactful that it ended up shaping the future King Charles III's lifelong passion for the environment and his belief in the importance of living in harmony with nature.

Now, 50 years on, naturalist and explorer Steve Backshall follows in the King's footsteps for ITV1's feature-length documentary special Royal Arctic Challenge to understand the true impact of climate change on the region, and see how the wildlife and the people are adapting.

NORTHERN EXPOSURE

'The Arctic is an extraordinary place,' says Backshall, 52. 'It's incredibly beautiful. It can be brutal and it's somewhere where, as a human being, you feel very, very small. But it's warming three times faster than anywhere else on the planet.'

Ahead of his trip, Backshall is honoured to be invited to meet His Majesty at Buckingham Palace, where they discuss the impact of climate change and look back on rare footage from the 1975 adventure. The King even recalls how he attempted dog sledding and took part in an extreme ice dive.

But while Backshall also has a go at those same activities on his own Arctic adventure, he's shocked by the obvious changes to the environment. Not only are the glaciers retreating, but polar bears are struggling to hunt for seals as the sea ice melts, and even Arctic seabirds have been affected by plastic pollution, with around three-quarters of some species found to have plastic in their stomachs.

CALL TO ACTION

Yet there's hope for the future. A lot of work is being done to monitor the Arctic's wildlife, and scientists remain optimistic about our ability to turn things around.

'The King wanted this film to communicate the urgency of taking action,' says Backshall. 'It's been extraordinary finding out how much has changed 50 years on.

'But while there's major cause for concern, I've also found great determination to ensure this stunning land and, ultimately, the planet itself, has a healthy future.'

Can some endangered baby animals be successfully rewilded?

FREE

NEW NATURE

Born to Be Wild

From Friday 19 December, Apple TV

When it comes to endangered animals, every creature counts – which is why the babies featured in Apple TV's six-part wildlife documentary Born to Be Wild could be the key to ensuring their species' survival.

The series follows six youngsters – a moon-bear cub, an elephant calf, a penguin chick, a lemur pup, cheetah cubs and a lynx kitten – who have either been orphaned or were born into conservation projects. Cameras follow their progress as their human carers teach them the life skills they will need before they can be rewilded.

'This series is a celebration of second chances, human-animal bonds, and the idea that we can still make a difference,' says executive producer Lucy van Beek.

Elephant calf Wam

SURVIVAL SKILLS

Filmed over several years across three continents and narrated by actor Hugh Bonneville, the series features vet Dr Panjit Basumatary as he battles to win the trust of moon bear Sagalee, who was found abandoned in the forests of north-east India, with his mother believed to be killed by poachers.

At the Centre for Bear Rehabilitation and Conservation in Arunachal Pradesh, Dr Basumatary is seen teaching Sagalee survival skills, and feeding him eight times a day – getting through over 200ltr of milk and 20 jars of honey in six months.

'He was the wildest bear we'd ever seen,' says Dr Basumatary, who has rescued over 3,000 animals in his 16-year career and helped rewild 65 moon bears, also known as Asiatic black bears. 'There was a real chance he would never make it to release.'

BONDING TIME

We also follow shy elephant calf Wam, found trapped in a waterhole. At the Lusaka Elephant Nursery in Zambia, his rehabilitation is overseen by deputy head keeper Aaron Gumbo, who gently encourages Wam to seek friendships with other elephants and puts him in pyjamas at night to keep him warm.

'We give them pyjamas as something soft and familiar they can suckle for comfort,' explains Gumbo, who has been providing care to orphaned elephants since 2012. 'Wam is just like my son. It's my dream to see him released back into the wild.'

Although professing his innocence, when ex-boxer-turned-priest Father Jud (Josh O'Connor) is suspected of killing his fire-and-brimstone boss Monsignor Wicks (Josh Brolin) at a small, posh parish in upstate New York, he is castigated by the cliquey church flock.

Because the murder seems impossible for anyone other than Jud to commit, to get to the bottom of the mystery the local police chief (Mila Kunis) calls in famed private sleuth Benoit Blanc (Daniel Craig) to investigate...

The third in the Knives Out film series from writer-director Rian Johnson is a supremely elegant puzzle box, put together with meticulous care and not a little humour. It's also helped by again having a cast of suspects that's stacked with talent – Jeremy Renner, Glenn Close, Kerry Washington, Andrew Scott, Thomas Haden Church, Cailee Spaeny and Daryl McCormack. The previous two films were absolutely terrific but, thanks to the pitch perfect pairing of Craig and O'Connor at its core, this may just be the best one yet.

The Mastermind

Available now, Mubi ★★★★★

Fast shaping up as one of the best young actors around, Josh O'Connor delivers another skilfully layered performance in this offbeat heist movie from director Kelly Reichardt. He plays the mastermind of the film's ironic title, a suburban father in 1970 small-town Massachusetts who plots the robbery of a local art museum that is even less well guarded than the Louvre in Paris. O'Connor's privileged JB (his father is a judge) arrogantly believes in his own genius, but when it comes to carrying out the theft he finds both his scheme and his life unravelling. Reichardt's quietly funny and shrewdly perceptive movie is a very rewarding watch, both as a revealing portrait of the self-deluding JB and as an insightful evocation of the American era in which it is set. 2025, 12, 110MIN

Shell

From Friday, Paramount+ ★★★

On a similar vibe to the more demented, outlandish The Substance, Shell sees once popular actress, now frumpy, psoriasis suffering Samantha Lake (a commendable Elisabeth Moss) convinced to take a treatment at Kate Hudson's gleaming facility. With promises to cure her skin as well as halt the ageing process, the crustacean-based 'cure' seems too good to be true. And, of course, it is... Moss and Hudson are fabulous in this movie made like a cheesy TV movie jacked up on hallucinogens, both able to turn whatever ridiculousness is thrown at them by the script to their advantage, as the truth of the 'procedure' turns both daft and icky in equal measure. The trashy synth score hits just the right note, too, adding to this hugely enjoyable, if eye-rolling satirical bloodbath. 2025, 15, 100MIN

In Your Dreams

Available now, Netflix ★★★★

With some lovely animation, this wonderful tale sees 12-year-old Stevie (voiced by Jolie Hoang-Rappaport) travel with her younger brother Elliot (Elias Janssen) to the world of dreams in the hope of keeping their parents (Cristin Millioti and Simu Liu) together. That's because if they can see the Sandman (Omid Djalili), he will make any wish come true, but the kids must face up to Nightmara (Gia Carides) first... The emotional beats hit perfectly, the pacing makes this a breeze, while the humour blends antics for the kids while nodding to more mature laughs. It's a win for all the family. 2025, PG, 90MIN

Mission: Impossible – The Final Reckoning

Friday, 9.40am & 8pm, Sky Premiere ★★★

Tom Cruise's final outing as daredevil Ethan Hunt brings the Mission: Impossible film series to a climax. Yet despite some edge-of-the-seat action involving typically audacious, breakneck stunts from the star, the movie as a whole feels deflatingly overblown. Picking up the story where the last instalment, Dead Reckoning, left off, this sees Cruise's maverick spy continuing his race against time to prevent renegade AI 'The Entity' from triggering nuclear annihilation.

But the plotting is needlessly complicated, with callbacks to previous films in the eight-long series. At its best the Mission: Impossible franchise has delivered white-knuckle thrills that have constantly teetered on the edge of absurdity. The Final Reckoning still has its share of breathless action, but this time the series' sense of fun is largely missing. Even Simon Pegg's comic-relief sidekick isn't that amusing. Hayley Atwell injects some spark as a nimble pickpocket and Cruise remains a cinematic force of nature, but if the movie had jettisoned its ponderous self importance it would have been much more enjoyable. 2024, 12, 169MIN

Jake Paul v Anthony Joshua

The boxers battle it out in Netflix's big-money showdown

LIVE BOXING

Friday 19 December, from 1am, Netflix

Netflix's live-streamed boxing bouts have been hugely popular with fight fans, and this late-night Friday showdown could be the biggest yet as American YouTuber Jake Paul takes on Britain's former world heavyweight champion Anthony Joshua in Miami.

Paul drew a record 108 million viewers for his victory over then-58-year-old legend Mike Tyson last year before defeating former middleweight champion Julio César Chávez Jr in June, while former Olympic gold-medallist Joshua is fighting for the first time since being knocked out by fellow Brit Daniel Dubois in 2024.

Despite warnings that the bout is a dangerous mismatch, Joshua, 36, has had no qualms about accepting a $50 million payday for the eight-round bout, which has been classed as a heavyweight fight even though Paul is a natural cruiserweight.

Here, Paul, 28, tells us more…

Joshua with his title belts

Why are you fighting Anthony Joshua? I like to challenge myself. I like to take on the biggest, the best. I said anyone, anytime, any place – I truly mean that. No one thought that this would be possible, that we would be here when I first started boxing, and no one thinks I'm going to win. So be ready to be shocked.

Do people still question your boxing credentials? I've never been knocked down or knocked out, even in sparring, but I'm in a sport where that happens. This is not a one-sided fight as people think. I know it's crazy and all of that, but I'm excited. I have power; I have the ability to put people to sleep. That's why I took this challenge. My team believes in me, and that's all that matters.

How can you get the better of Joshua? He's one of the best heavyweights ever, but I believe that fighting a smaller man is oftentimes harder for a heavyweight because of the speed difference and because of the foot speed. He's knocked people out, so I just have to avoid that one shot for eight rounds, and I believe that I can do that. There's more pressure on him; I can fight free. If he starts losing rounds, I think the cookie will crumble.

This is your 14th pro fight. Why did you get into boxing? I'm really here to be a beacon for kids out there to take inspiration from. One of the biggest goals I have in my life is to show people where self-belief, manifestation, hard work and discipline can take you.

Australia v England: Third Test

From Tuesday, play starts 11.30pm, TNT Sports 1 & Discovery+

As the Adelaide Oval stages the third Ashes Test, Ben Stokes' England will be seeking to overcome a dismal record at the ground where Australia have won the last three meetings. The home side's eight-wicket win in the opening match in Perth was the first Ashes Test to be concluded in two days since 1921. It saw England opener Zak Crawley score ducks in both innings, while Baggy Greens pace bowler Mitchell Starc recorded career-best Test figures of 7-58 and Travis Head hit a sensational century off just 69 balls – the second-fastest ton in Ashes history.
